The present volume supersedes the manuscript calendars for the following years :

1686	"Lloyd"	1690	"Dyke"
1687	"Foot"	1691	"Vere"
1688	"Exton"	1692	"Fane"
1689	"Ent"	1693	"Coker"

The transcription onto slips of the entries in the registers and the checking of those slips with the Probate Act Books have been done by Miss E. M. Glanville, B.A.; Mr. John A. Goodall; Mrs. M. W. Hesketh-Williams; Major F. J. Jebens, M.C.; Miss P. W. Shield and the General Editor. The Society is indebted to our Chairman and Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Marc Fitch, F.S.A., for so kindly volunteering to make the supplementary indexes; a most laborious undertaking most ably performed.

The usual and well understood abbreviations have been used once more but mar. has been added for mariner; O. W. stands for Original Will; entries in square brackets are taken from the Probate Act Books [P.A.B.]. After finding a will in one of the registers a searcher should look at the appropriate entry in the probate act book for the year in which the will was proved. This may be troublesome but instructions to help in the search are to be found in the Department for Literary Inquiry at Somerset House, where at the moment the wills in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury are preserved. To make things still easier it is intended to give the folio in the probate act book in our own indexes in future. But in this volume the folio numbers, when given, refer to years other than that of the probate of the will or, sometimes, because the editor wishes to draw special attention to an entry which might otherwise be missed.

Our next volume will bring the index of wills in the P.C.C. to the year 1700 and it is unlikely that the present general editor will be in office when further indexes for this court are issued. He takes this opportunity, therefore, of saying something about the uses of our indexes and the work of compilation. Local, social and general historians as well as topographers, economists and others make use of wills found by reference to our volumes. They generally fail to make reference to this Society in their published work and indeed some of them think that all we do is to borrow MS. indexes from the Court of Probate and have them set up in type. Such is not the case. The calendars (at present at Somerset House, London) are in MS. volumes arranged with the names of testators under first letter only and even then not in alphabetical order but by dates. Search for a will over a lengthy period may take several days or even weeks and can be done only by personal attendance at Somerset House. Moreover these MS. calendars have an omission factor of almost five per cent. so that to date this Society has wrested little short of 10,000 wills from oblivion as well as providing additional indexes of trades and conditions, places and ships, so important to the social and economic historian and to the topographer and at the same time of so much general interest. Research is also made possible far from the location of the records themselves. Records without indexes are virtually a closed book to persons without means and leisure. Since the records of this court relate to persons resident in all parts of England and Wales and, indeed, throughout the world, the importance of these indexes to all libraries and institutions affording facilities for research cannot be overestimated. The introduction to our first volume of P.C.C. wills gives a valuable history of the court and guide to its jurisdiction and sets out carefully the nature of the material indexed, with an alphabetical list of the registers and another list of the registers arranged chronologically.

No index can be free from error, but the Society can fairly claim that it carries out its work with extreme care. In preparing an index of wills in the P.C.C. a slip must first be written with the name, residence and occupation of the testator and the date and reference for every will in the register. The slips are then checked with the Probate Act Books, when discrepancies may come to light as well as additional information, necessitating it may be the examination of the original will and collation with the official calendar. This is a long, difficult and expensive task, but it is by no means the end, for the slips must next be sorted into alphabetical order, then edited, which calls for expert topographical knowledge for the identification of place names, and finally typed for the printer. In preparing the supplementary indexes it may be necessary to write some 25,000 slips in addition and these must then be sorted, edited and typed.

With rising costs the Society finds it difficult to sustain its pre-war rate of output and now that voluntary help is getting scarcer it has to rely upon material prepared for publication by others; it can no longer pay for the preparation of the slips and for the checking described above. In the case of this volume the Society gratefully acknowledges the financial help it has received from the Pilgrim Trust.

C.H.R.

London
March 1957.

While the present volume was still in the press, the death occurred of Mr. C. Harold Ridge, F.S.A., the Society's Hon. General Editor. His death is a great loss to the Society to whose work he had devoted much time over many years in spite of his extensive and varied other interests, and of failing health.

In 1942 he undertook the joint general editorship of the Society's publications with Mr. John Ainsworth, taking over from him during the war years and continuing alone as Hon. General Editor from 1945 until his death. His enthusiasm was always an inspiration to those who were associated with him in the Society's work.

INDEX OF SHIPS, MILITARY UNITS AND TRADING COMPANIES

When ships are undescribed in the text or simply named 'SHIP' or 'MERCHANTMAN' no description has been given in this Index. This, however, does not preclude such a ship from being identical with a described ship of the same name.

The figure in brackets after the page number indicates the number of times the name occurs on the page referred to.

INDEX OF PLACE NAMES

In general the main headings are Parishes. Where houses, hamlets or townships appear in the Main Index they are included as sub-headings of the Parish in which they are situated and cross references are given under their own name to the Parish concerned. Identity of name, however, has not been considered a warrant for including such houses, etc. under a Parish when in fact it has not been named in the Main Index. They should be sought under their own names. Where no Parish occurs in the Main Index as many house and minor names as possible have been identified and the Parish included in brackets.

The majority of spelling variants have been included in brackets after the modern form which has generally been adopted as standard.
